

Driving Digital Success

A note to our clients,

The rapid development of COVID-19 has made health and safety of our employees and customers a top priority. We also understand this is having a significant business impact for Guide and our customers.

At Guide, we are working with our employees by allowing them to work remotely and reduce unnecessary travel. We also respect our customers' decisions regarding travel restrictions and social distancing. At the same time, we understand that there are important projects that need to be completed and services that are required to support our customers. Even though it is not business as usual, Guide will be creative and flexible to find ways to provide our services and support remotely instead of on-site. We are very well equipped to work remote via phone, Go To Meeting or VPN and other means to deliver our support and services.

We know these are trying times, but Guide's sales and services teams will continue to be creative and flexible to support your business needs. We are here to support you in any manner we can.

Sincerely,

Brad Spaits, Guide Technologies President
